Objective: The presentation aims to describe the development of a multidisciplinary sexual assault care team providing services to children and adults.

In 2006 the two departments of gynecology and pediatrics was located in the same building at the new campus at St. Olavs University hospital in Trondheim, giving us the opportunity to develop a joined sexual assault team caring for both children and adults.

The practical organization of the team will be described as well as the opportunities with this model. A specific focus on what we have learned from each other will be provided.
